'Giacomo Puccini was not only an opera composer, he was also the fourth generation to be an organist, assistant to the cathedral organist of Lucca from 1872-1874 and won first prizes in organ competitions in 1875 and 1876. His organ compositions, which also include this march, are based on the possibilities of the typical organs of his time, rather smaller instruments with a short pedal attached. This recording is based on this sound.'

Christoph Bartusek on the organ (Weimbs 2009 - 26 / II / P - after Gebr. Stumm) at St. Peter / Rheinberg.
